Meetingplace Navet

Meetingplace Navet is the national SciLifeLab hub in Uppsala, a place where scientists, facility staff and visitors from within and outside of the academic environment can meet. The innovative architecture is designed to facilitate interdisciplinary meetings and serves as an inspiring atmosphere for promoting creativity.

Navet offers meeting rooms for 6 to 92 persons, an open meeting area for mingle events, lunches, poster sessions and exhibitions, as well as guest rooms that can be used to work for shorter periods.

Navet can host meetings, courses and events arranged by SciLifeLab facilities and researchers.

Mötestorget – the Meeting Square

Mötestorget is the open area on the ground floor in Navet, and is frequently used for mingle events, lunches, poster sessions and exhibitions.

The area is also used on a daily basis by staff and members of the SciLifeLab community for lunch and coffee, meaning that there might be other people at Mötestorget during the booked events.

The meeting square Mötestorget is booked free of charge by emailing lokalbokning@scilifelab.uu.se. This is necessary to avoid double bookings.

When you book Mötestorget, there are some terms you agree to, to help us keep the meeting place nice and tidy.

- Cleaning. All surfaces should be wiped clean and you need to remove everything you brought, such as food, beverages and waste.
- Wash the dishes. Either by hand or by using the dishwasher.
- Furnishing. The area must be restored according to the original plan and left clean and tidy.

Guest rooms

SciLifeLab offers guest rooms in Navet to researchers and scientists allowing them to work there in shorter periods.

It is possible to use the guest rooms on a drop-in basis, but they can also be booked for a whole week through lokalbokning@scilifelab.uu.se.
